

Motoya Kimura

Student of Fukushima University, and the representative of a student group “Re + Fukushima Laboratory”

Born in Hirono Town. Living in Fukushima City. He was born and grew up in a family that runs a restaurant and other businesses at Hirono Station. He had planned to enter Fukushima Prefectural Futaba-Shoyo Senior High School, but he suffered from the Great East Japan Earthquake after just graduating from junior high school. He entered high school in Iwaki City and went on to Fukushima University. While engaging in the activities to develop the community of Kawauchi Village and Minamisoma as part of the education program of the university, he participated in activities to revitalize Hirono Town. He also led a student group to study decommissioning and conduct an on-site observatory tour of the NPS as a member of the generation that will create the future of Futaba District. Currently, he is on job-hunting.
